HONGKONG, FEIDAY, JUNE 1, 189

THE Plague has now been with us for nearly a month. That is to say, its existence has been officially recognised for a period of about that extent As a matter of fact, however, it made its appearance in the colony considerably. more than a month ago. For reasons which would not readily suggest themselves to a European, but which may be guessed by those who know Chinese human nature, the fact that the Plague had visited us was carefully concealed. Before the European community knew anything about it, even before the Sanitary Board had any official notification of its presence amongst us, the pestilence had established itself in the central district of the city and had practically taken possession of the squalid and filthy tenements with which that quarter is crowded. Probably the great majority of the European community knew no more about Taipingshan than they know of Timbuctoo or Bulawayo. Indeed, it would be hardly too much to say that their knowledge of these far-away places must have been more complete and more accurate than their knowledge of the central portion of the city in which they live. It is impossible to conceive that the Government, or those whose duty it is to look after the sanitation of the Colony. could have known the dreadfal condition of most of the houses in this district. Why did they not know? The only possible answer to the ouestion is that they did not want to know. It would appear that the owners or lessees of the houses in this quarter had become convinced that the value of the property increased in accordance with the accumulation of filth, and that the scraping of mud from the floors or the removal rubbish and excreta would inevitably lead to a reduction of rents, and perhaps paralyse the property market, so far as the central district is concerned. At all events, whatever may have been the reasons for allowing the occupants of these wretched dens to make dunghills and cesspools of their dwelling-places, it has now become perfectly clear that they have to suffer for their sins against the principles of sanitation. The law of cause and effect has not vet ceased to operate and Nemesis has not retired from business. The worst of it is that Nemesis in this case, as in most cases, is somewhat indiscriminate and strikes fallen victims to the Plague, and the question which is being asked with more and more anxiety every day is-How many more? Who can give any satisfactory answer to that question? A plague is not stopped by mere discussion but only by active, strenuous unremitting effort. We are glad to see, from the report of the special meeting of the Sanitary Board held yesterday. that the members of that body are beginning to recognise this fact. However desirable it may be to prevent a scare among the community on the outbreak of such a fatal disease as that which is now raging in the heart of the city, it was decidedly a mistake-it might be properly described as something much more reprehensible than a mere mistake-to treat it as a matter of little importance. The impression which seemed to prevail when the Plague came under official recognition was that it would confine itself to the Chinese population of the colony. Assuming that such an opinion was held by the European community, we quite fail to see how it afforded any reason for regarding the visitation of the Plague with what might be called a feeling of indifference. The immunity of the European population from the disease well as those that should be blamed.

Between those two classes many have can hardly be maintained now, in face of the fact that several men and one officer of the garrison have been attacked. This, of course, makes it all the more evident that it is absolutely necessary for Europeans to take every possible precaution against an invasion by the Plague. We do not believe that the danger to Europeans is very great, but that there is a certain degree of danger is now beyond all doubt. The Sanitary staff and the Special Committee of the Sanitary Board bave been doing their utmost to avert. or at least to minimise that danger, but it still exists and may be said to have assumed a more serious aspect than it has had since the first appearance of the Plague in the colony., It must be said to the credit of the Sanitary Board that they have now; on fully realising the gravity of the situation, taken strong measures—which will be effective to we hope stamp out the Plague. Of course, is easy for irresponsible persons to say that these measures ought to have been adopted before, but it must be remembered that the question of dealing with the Plague when it was submitted to the Board was one which was by no means easy to enswer. It might be said that the Plague began years ago, when the filth which has been and is being removed from the

enough to clapse before dealing with the plague in an energetic and sweeping mannor. Householders know that it is for their own good that their houses should be put in order, so as not to be a nuisance to themselves or a danger to the neighbours hood. I think that by giving notice of forty. eight hours a whole neighbourhood may be involved, and then it will be the old ides of shutting the stable door after the steed is stolen. No one with any sense of responsibility for himself and for the health of the whole community would hesitate for moment in putting his house in order. If there is anyone who has not got any sense about him, and takes no measures to protect himself or others from this fatal plague by all means in his power, then I Board.

think it is quite justifiable for the Board to step in and say 'We will do the work at your expense' which I think just-and not at the expense of the public. I We see that the plague is increasing amongst us, and all that these bye-laws means is that the Permanent Committee. can anticipate and go before the plague, asit were, and clear, the place before the plague has a chance. If you give 48 hours' notice, you allow the plague 48 hours' measure at all. I would ask the Board to cordually adopt the suggestion of Mr Hum. phreys-that is, for the Board to undertake to clean the houses for them and then charge the householder or landlord of the between them, or share it in any other way, quantity of rubbish which you could by-laws dated and published in the Hong-

The first question Mr Humphreys raises is that no opportunity should be given to householders, that they should not be called on at all, but that the Sanitary Board and the Government should set them aside, and undertake the work which they ought to be compelled to do. I admit at once that theoretically that is the best thing that could be done, but it is absolutely impracticable, for this reason, that the Permanent Committee has the greatest difficulty to get a sufficient number of labourers to cleanse and a sufficient number of persons to supervise that labour and tackle the number of houses actually infected from day to day. ### THE CHINA REVIEW.

PUBLISHED BI-MONTHLY. THIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of 'Notes and Queries on China and Japan,' has reached its Twenty-first Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the Far East' and minds of students of the Far East' and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It includes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., of China, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new departure has been taken, and the Review new gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending the scope of the Review in this direction, the Magazine would be made more generally The Review department receives special attention, and endeavours are made to present a careful and concise record of Literature on China etc., and to give critiques embodying sketches of the Most recent works on such topics. Authors and Publishers are requested to forward works to Editor, China Review, care of China

Mail Office. The Notes and Queries are still continued and form an important means of obtaining from and diffusing among students knowledge on obsoure points.

The Correspondents' column also affords farther and greater facilities for the interchange of views and discussion of various

Original contributions in Chinese, Latin, or any of the Modern Languages are re-coived. The papers are contributed by the members of the various Consular, the Imperial Customs, and Hongkong Services, and also by the Missionary bodies amongst whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is assiduously cultivated. Amongst the regular contributors are Drs. Chalmers, Eitel, Bretschneider, and Hirth, Professor Legge, and Messrs Balfour, Watters, Stent, Phillips, MacIntyre, Groot, Jamisson, Faber, Kopson, Parker, Playfair, Giles, Piton, and Taylor,—all well-known names, indicative of sound scholarship and thorough mastery of their subject. The Subscription is fixed at $5.50 per annum, postage included payable in adpromptly attended to; Address, 'Manager, China Mail Office."

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS. All our learned societies should subsoribe to this scholarly and enterprising Review. - Northern Christian Advocate (U.S.) The China Review * * * * has an excellent table of contents.'-Celestial Empire. The Publication always contains subjects of interest to sojourners in the Far East and the present issue will hold favourable if not advantageous comparison, with preceding numbers,'-Celestial Empire.

This number contains several articles of interest and value. - North-China Herald. The China Review for September-October fully maintains the high standard of excellence which characterises that publication, and altogether forms a very interesting and readable number. teorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche, on "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results of observations made at the Imperial Russian Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to 1880. "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formoss," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and appreciative review of "The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua," and the Notes and Queries are as usual very interesting.'-North-China Daily News. A substantial and reliable Review which all students of China and the Chinese would do well to patronise. - Chrysinthemum. The November December number of the China Review contains less variety than usual, but the few articles are very interesting. The opening paper by Mr Herbert A. Giles on "The New Testament in Chinese" treats of a question that must necessarily be of great importance in the eyes missionaries. Mr E. H. Parker's "Short Journeys in Szechuen" are continued, and a goodly instalment of these travels in the interior of China is given. Mr F. H. Balfour contributes a paper of some length entitled "The Emperor Cheng, founder of the Chinese Empire," which will be read with genuine interest by students of Chinese history. A few short notices of New Books and a number of Notes and Queries, one of which "On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number.'-H.K. Daily Press. Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the China Review:-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature. antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs corps, and the missionary body. among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assiduously cultivated, and who are severally represented in the first number of the Review by papers highly creditable to their respective authors . . . Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowra, is not only historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new books relating to Ohina and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Reciew if carried out with punctuality and detail, we are glad to notice that Notes and Queries are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions on Ohinese subjects may evoke a similar sgree of literary seal to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its prede-may receive the support necessary to insure
